Some day we will realize that the prime duty, the inescapable duty of the good citizens of the right type is to leave his or her blood behind him in the world; and that we have no business to permit the perpetuation of citizens of the wrong type. The great problem of civilization is to secure a relative increase of the valuable as compared with the less valuable or noxious elements in the population . . . . The problem cannot be met unless we give full consideration to the immense influence of heredity . . . I wish very much that the wrong people could be prevented entirely from breeding; and when the evil nature of these people is sufficiently flagrant, this should be done. Criminals should be sterilized and feeble minded persons forbidden to leave offspring behind them . . . The emphasis should be laid on getting desirable people to breed.

In early 1900's mental institutions would sterilize thousands that they thought should not be allowed to breed.
